DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-13 have been examined.

Specification

2. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:
- Page 2, line 6 – “root” should be changed to “route”
 - Page 8, line 13 states speaker 31 and page 9, line 18 lists LCD panel 31.
 - Page 9, line 25 – “arithmetic processing unit 31” should be “arithmetic processing unit 34”
 - Page 10, line 7 – “arithmetic processing unit 21” should be “arithmetic processing unit 34”

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless – (e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-7 and 9-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Sekiyama (US 6,427,115.) Sekiyama discloses a portable terminal and an on-vehicle information processing device comprising:

- In regard to claim 1, a display device, which is the main device, that has a first processing unit, a display unit, an interface unit, and the first processing unit controlling the display unit so as to display information related to the specific type of processing transmitted from the external information processing apparatus, which is the portable terminal, and also executes another type of processing related to the specific type of processing based upon an instruction provided by the portable terminal. (Column 3, line 30 – Column 4, line 7)

- In regard to claim 2, an information processing apparatus, which is the portable terminal, that has an interface unit, a second processing unit where the second processing unit issues an instruction to have the first processing unit at the display device execute another type of processing related to the specific type of processing. (Column 4, lines 30-32; Column 3, line 64 – Column 4, line 7)
- In regard to claim 3, an information processing system which comprises the above mentioned display device or main device and the information processing apparatus or portable terminal. The main device and portable terminal create an information processing system.
- In regard to claims 4, 5 and 9 the specific type of processing executed at the second processing unit includes processing related to road guidance (Column 5, lines 4-12), and the other type of processing at the first processing unit includes at least either processing for displaying a road map at the display unit or processing for a route search. (Column 4, lines 3-7)
- In regard to claims 6 and 11, a second display unit which is smaller in size than the display unit of the display device. (See figure 1)

Art Unit: 3661

- In regard to claim 7, the information processing apparatus or portable terminal has a second display unit which is smaller in size than the display unit of the display device (See figure 1) and the specific type of processing executed includes processing related to road guidance and displaying at the second display unit a straight arrow or a bent arrow without displaying a map. (See figure 4b)
- In regard to claim 10, 12 and 13, the information processing apparatus or portable terminal includes a radio tuner (Column 4, lines 41-51) and the processing executed at the first processing unit includes audio processing. (Column 3, lines 46-50)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sekiyama (US 6,427,115.) Sekiyama fails to disclose the first processing unit achieving a higher processing performance level than the second processing unit, however, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to create the first processing unit to have a higher processing performance level in order to allow the first processing unit to execute the navigation functions quickly since the first processing unit is doing the route searching, displaying map data and also audio processing.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

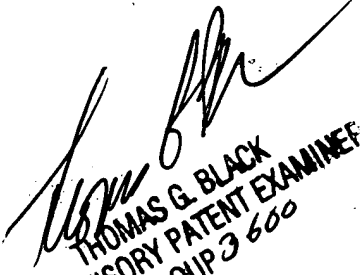

- US 6,839,630 to Sakamoto discloses a navigation system with a main device and an off-vehicle device, each device having it's own processor.
- US 6,347,278 to Ito discloses a mobile terminal and a server for navigation system.
- US 6,748,321 to Watanabe et al discloses a navigation system equipped with a portable sub-navigation unit.
- US 6,487,493 to Uekawa et al discloses a navigation device having a platform-dependent part and a user-interface-dependent part of supplying navigation services.
